Results

(What are some of the marvels of the atomic age that are to be discovered by science's new wonder tools—the radioactive isotopes? How may they be used in solving the mysteries longevity and disease? The intriguing prospects for humanity in coming generations are authoritatively pictured herewith by one of the country's topmost research engineers. He is Arthur VanDyck, RCA Laboratories executive and an official observer at last year's Bikini atom bomb tests.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(INS)—Scientists the world over are today vastly intrigued by the future possibilities of radioactive isotopes. Isotopes have become the all-absorbing, No. 1 topic among scientists in the present "atomic age."

For radioactive isotopes research may, in the not distant future, bring about incalculable results for the benefit of the human race. Such research may give the answers to questions such as:

1.—Why do men stop growing at 21?

2.—What causes cancer and what can cure it?

3.—Will people of the next generation, or the one after that, live to be 125 years old?

4.—How soon will ships, planes, trains and automobiles be powered by radioactive materials?

The whole topic was brought to a head by President Truman's recent announcement that the United States would now make radioactive isotopes available to scientists throughout the world.

A little more than a year ago the United States began making available to its own scientists the radioactive isotopes for research use. This country was able to supply them because they were a relatively cheap by-product of atomic bomb research.

Now the world is to have them for peacetime advancement.

This is a good thing, in the opinion of Arthur VanDyck, assistant to the executive vice-president in charge of RCA Laboratories Division of the Radio Corporation of America. VanDyck was an official observer at the Bikini atomic bomb tests.

VanDyck declared this yet enormously assist scientists of other countries, in their peacetime research work, particularly in the fields of medicine and metallurgy. Said VanDyck:

"Each nation will benefit most if all nations throw their contributions into the common pool of scientific knowledge. This is the policy of the universality of science which has brought about the rapid advances of the past hundred years."

VanDyck said the next twenty

St. Ann's Church Observes Feast of Our Lady of Loretto

A solemn high mass followed by a procession was held at the St. Ann's Parish this morning in commemoration of the Feast of Our Lady of Loretto. The mass was held at 10 a. m. with the Rev. C. Cecconi, O. S. S. T., officiating, assisted by the Revs. D. Parente and M. Renzulli, O. S. S. T. The sermon was delivered by the parish pastor the Rev. P. Pinci, O. S. S. T.

The feast of Our Lady of Loretto is an annual affair. It is held to commemorate the apparition of the Blessed Virgin Mary to a little girl in the small town of Capriocotta, Italy. It is said that during the apparition the Blessed Virgin declared to the little girl that a church should be built on the spot where her image appeared. It was done and a cast of the image was made. Many miracles and favors have been performed by Our Lady, church authorities stated.

The procession was held immediately following the mass. The Philadelphia Italian Band supplied the music. Members of St. Ann's School, Our Lady of Loretto Society, Mount Carmel Society and Our Lady of Grace Society, participated in the procession. The statue of Our Lady of Loretto was donated to the St. Ann's Parish by Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Di Lorenzo, Wood and Brook streets, Bristol, in 1939.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Britain, France and ten other countries will create a body to study the possibilities of a customs union. The proposal, to which Iceland also has subscribed, had been under prolonged consideration at the Paris conference to give effect to the Marshall plan. The Paris meeting, meanwhile, foresaw the removal of major differences after Foreign Secretary Bevin had instructed the British delegation to accept six conditions advanced by Under-Secretary of State Clayton.

In Washington, Government officials declared the Paris conference must trim further its estimate of needs, now put at $19,000,000,000. President McCloy of the World Bank emphasized that United States help could not take the place of the basic financial reforms needed by many European nations.

Sir Stafford Cripps told Britain her present economic struggle constituted a life-or-death crisis and warned that the Government might start new industries if private enterprise did not improve the quality and quantity of its output for export.

Decide To Hold Sessions Of Ass'n Twice Yearly

The Fleetwing Estates Civic Association met Thursday evening at 4 Fleetwing Drive, home of the treasurer, R. J. LaBrie.

The first subject discussed was the shelter to be erected at the bus stop. A motion was passed to have Robert Drake design a shelter and obtain an estimate on the cost of the lumber.

It was then stated that general meetings of the association, instead of being held monthly, will be held twice yearly. If special meetings are felt to be necessary, the president will call them. The only group to meet monthly will be the board of directors. The next meeting was set for November 13th.

Mrs. Lawrence Harrison, president of the Women's Auxiliary, and Mrs. William Dahl, chairman of the auxiliary, discussed the relative status of the two treasurers.

60% INCREASE IN YEAR

By JACK WARD
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 13 (INS)—The State Highway Safety Bureau today reported 14,381 drivers had their licenses suspended or revoked during the first eight months of 1947. The figure represented a 60 per cent increase over 1946.

Director T. E. Transeau said he was "convinced" the "license-lifting" program had resulted in a reduction of automobile fatalities.

He said 12,789 drivers' certificates were suspended and 1,592 revoked so far this year. Suspensions averaged 90 days and revocations were for a minimum of one year, he explained.

During the same period last year, 7,418 certificates were suspended and 1,352 revoked, he added.

"Despite severe criticism of the program, it has, in our opinion, materially reduced the highway death rate," Transeau asserted.

He pointed out that motor vehicle deaths in the Commonwealth during the first seven (7Q) months of 1947 totaled 551, compared to 942 in the same period a year ago.

CIGARETTE CAUSES DAMAGE TO A HOUSE

Croydon Man Falls Asleep,

ONE ROOM SCORCHED

CROYDON, Sept. 13.—A blaze believed to have been caused by a cigarette dropped by a man napping in an upholstered chair, damaged one room of a house here last night, and caused four to evacuate the house for a time.

The fire occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller, Minot avenue, College Park, at 11:20. Suddenly awakened by the blaze, Mr. Miller narrowly escaped being burned, the chair in which he was reclining being ablaze. He aroused his two children who were asleep in another room on the same floor of the six-room dwelling, and they made their way from the house.

Croydon Fire Company was summoned by neighbors, and Bucks County Rescue Squad dispatched a truck to supply lights as an aid to the firemen.

The loss, according to William Smith, chief of Croydon Fire Co., is small, the living room being scorched, and a few pieces of furniture being destroyed.

The house, of frame construction, is one story plus an attic, it containing six rooms. The Miller family rents it from Samuel Grimshaw, Philadelphia.

2 CHURCHES BENEFIT BY BRASHEARS WILL

Late Doylestown Caterer
Leaves Estate Listed At Over $7,000

THE PRESTON ESTATE

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 13.—In the will of Mrs. Alice P. Brashears, well-known Doylestown caterer, two Episcopal churches were remembered. The churches benefiting are St. Paul's of Doylestown, and St. Thomas, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Brashears left a personal estate of $1,000, and real estate listed at $6,000. The will was written March 15, 1938, and the bequest to St. Paul's Church here is $200.

Mrs. Brashears, who named the Doylestown Trust Company and J. Purdy Weiss executors, stipulated that the residue of her estate be placed in a trust fund which will benefit Helen Brashears. Following the death of Helen Brashears, St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Philadelphia, will be the beneficiary.

The testatrix in her will explained that a list of articles in which various heirs were to inherit certain possessions had been prepared by her prior to her death.

Albert W. Preston, Solebury township businessman and banker, who died August 16, left a personal estate of $25,000 and real estate valued at $6,500.

Mr. Preston directed that a nephew, Albert P. Case, should receive a gold watch. He created a trust fund of $6,000 which will provide an income for Marian Case, Howard Case and Albert P. Case.

Following the death of these beneficiaries, the Solebury Burying Grounds and the Friends Boarding Home, Newtown, will share the income equally. The residue of the estate is to provide an income for Minnie A. Apple and upon her death the Solebury Burying Grounds and Friends Boarding Home, Newtown, will share the income. The will was executed December 26, 1946.

The widow, C. Mae Detweiler, Quakertown, RD 3, was named the beneficiary of the $1,500 personal and $10,000 real estate holdings of her husband, Richard L. Detweiler, Haycock township, who was electrocuted August 16 while using an electric drill on a car.

The testator, who executed his will October 24, 1932, while he was residing in Hatfield, left real estate including a 113 acre farm in Haycock township. The widow was also named executrix.

CAN THEY BE FRIENDS?

On September 16, the General Assembly of the United Nations will convene in New York, and the eyes of all mankind will be upon it—hopefully, yet appreciatively.

As the date approaches, the tenor of American comment on Russia has sharpened. Recently President Truman, Secretaries Marshall and Forrestal and Senator Vandenberg have mentioned "individual prejudices," "iron fist," "non-cooperator," or "frustrating delays" in separate statements naming no names, but adding up to a direct campaign to focus world opinion upon the Soviet attitude. This attitude has been expressed unmistakably during two years in which Russia has used the veto a score of times in UN councils, and raised her voice against America all over the world.

She has opposed the American plan for international control of atomic energy, and refused to discuss disarmament unless the atomic bomb is included.

She has fought UN investigation of her Balkan actions, yet has demanded an inquiry into colonies and territories—including Alaska and Hawaii—and has opposed American cooperation with Britain and France to restore German economy.

In Asia she has refused to join in Japanese peace talks, has failed to turn over Dairen to China, and has created a deadlock in Korean discussions.

Over the top of the world she peers with suspicion at American Arctic activities, criticizes the American military agreement with Canada, views U. S. relations with Iceland, Greenland and Denmark as preparatory to "world domination," and accuses the Swedes and Norwegians of harboring U. S.-paid anti-Soviet spies.

The next week may reveal whether two members of the family of nations, holding such divergent views, can remain under one roof.

A woman is mad because the faces on American currency are those of men only. Probably the exception that proves the rule that women would rather have their hands on it.

While President Truman was in South America he should have paid a visit to Ecuador and found out how they put on a war with one shot and no bond drives.

French designers claim short skirts were a result of war, and should be relegated because people want to forget war. And what that women have knees?

If the chap who wrote a book, "How to Sell Yourself," ever tries to buy an automobile, he may be inspired to write a sequel, "How to Trade Yourself In."

The report which says the dollar has now become a pygmy should make exceptions of the cases in which it is only a memory.

PROTESTS SET ASIDE IN SOFTBALL DISPUTE

A four-man board of arbitration voted unanimously to sustain the umpire's judgment in ruling on the play involving Calvary Baptist and Hunter-Wilson on which the latter protested Calvary's 3-2 victory in the Bristol softball tournament.

Hunter-Wilson based his protest on a called ball on an attempted bunt by George Getz in the third inning. However, this was disallowed inasmuch as Hunter-Wilson did not file his protest at the time of the play, but later in the game when they were losing. Furthermore, the subsequent action of the batter had no bearing on the final outcome of the game whatsoever since he popped out on the next pitch and no runs were scored, no bases were run, and the batting order of Calvary did not change as a result of the decision in protest.

As to the second and more elaborated point at protest, Hunter-Wilson maintained that when two batters in a row were struck by pitched balls in the sixth inning, neither batter—Elwood Dyer and Harry Erny—had made an effort to get out of the way of the pitch until after they were hit; and further, that Dyer had actually swung at the ball.

However, both umpires in the game, J. Gouza and Ralph Hart, steadfastly maintained that both batters had made definite effort to move out of the way of the pitch.

The board of arbitration ruled unanimously that since both Dyer and Erny had jumped up in the air to avoid a low pitch which struck both in the vicinity of the ankles, that constituted sufficient evidence that they had made an effort to avoid the pitch.

Under the Official Softball Rules for 1947, a batter struck by a pitched ball while in his batter's box is entitled to first base provided he makes a definite effort to avoid the pitch and that he does not swing at such pitched ball. This rule was upheld by both umpires in the game and by the board of arbitration in calling the play and in ruling on the umpire's decision on such plays.

In the other protest, the Jefferson Athletic Club neither submitted a formal protest on their disputed game with the Rohm & Haas Lab., nor were they present to present their views on the dispute. Thus the committee immediately disallowed such protest.

The deciding contest will be played today.

Potentialities of Isotopes Intrigue

years may see tremendous changes due to atomic research whether atomic energy is used for peace or war. He thought we may see:

"1.—Tremendously useful medicinal discoveries.

"2.—Atomic power plants at strategic points. (Such places as the Arctic regions, in the Rocky Mountains, Chicago and New York, doing away with the necessity of running long transmission lines, the hauling of coal, etc.).

"3.—The application of atomic power for mobile uses in ships, and a start toward its use in other means of transportation."

He pointed out that 20 years is an important average cycle length in scientific development. For example: about 1900 radio was born. By 1920 radio had become a big communications art and radio broadcasting was beginning. By 1940 many other off-shoots were born—such as sound motion pictures, television, radar and industrial heating.

In VanDyck's opinion, the application of atomic power for uses in transportation other than in ships will be the most difficult to attain. It may require forty or fifty years to achieve this but, he thought, at least a start will be made in another generation or so.

VanDyck recalled that people at the beginning of the electrical age (about 1880) did not realize what electrical development was going to do, but, he said, see what happened by means of electricity even by 1900, and then by 1920.

VanDyck visualized great strides in medicine in the future through radioactive isotopes research. He said:

"Why do we grow during childhood and stop growing at 21? The reason has not been learned. "If scientists find out through radioactive isotope research what regulates and controls bodily growth, wonderful possibilities unfold.

"If they can find out the factor that controls growth, it may be possible to allow it to continue until a man is 30 or 40 years of age."

Turning to a lighter vein, VanDyck voiced the following intriguing possibility:

"If normal growth continued beyond childhood, a man at 27 would be 10 feet tall, and 16 feet tall at 40. It might be possible to stop growth at any age. A super-race might be developed."

VanDyck smilingly remarked that if a super-race were developed, it might be a good idea to assign it to the United Nations to police the world.

Speaking seriously again, he thought it quite possible that through radioactive isotope study of the functioning of the human body future generations may live to be 120 or more years of age. He said:

"Once you know exactly what the body's physiological processes are you can determine what conditions are most healthy—what is good for us and what is not."

"Now, by means of radioactive isotopes, the physiologists will be able to study in detail what is going on in the complex bodily processes and find ways to combat cancer, heart disease, and other ailments that now curtail human life."

Licenses Suspended For 14,381 Drivers

"We had 91 fewer deaths this year," he said. "It looks as if the state will be well under the 1700 auto deaths recorded last year."

He explained that the increase in licenses lifted followed a heavy rise in traffic and tightened post-war highway policing.

Transeau emphasized that "there has been no particular 'crackdown' campaign against motorists."

More than 100,000 operators have paid the penalty since the program was instituted in 1938, he said.

Deaths in 1937 hit an all-time high of 2600, he said. The program to penalize reckless drivers reduced the toll by 20 per cent the following year and since then has resulted in similar annual decreases, he claimed.

Transeau said critics of the system contended first offenders should not be punished so severely.

"Our experience over the years has taught us that in a high percentage of cases where operators have been punished, they never again come to the attention of the department," he explained. "The average operator, once involved in such procedure, becomes an extremely conservative driver."

"It would not be too much to say that a large part of our system's philosophy is based on these thoughts."

He pointed out that 7135 suspensions, more than half of the total this year, were for speeding. Reckless driving accounted for 2026 others, while 541 were imposed for failures to appear at hearings.

Driving privileges were withdrawn for 99 days from 308 motorists involved in fatal accidents.

Intoxicated drivers accounted for 929 revocations. The balance of suspensions and revocations was imposed for more than a score of various offenses, he said.
